

Lord, take Your place

There's a moving of Your spirit
When we approach Your throne
And the silence is transformed with sacred holiness
We worship You in spirit
In truth we will draw near Come and fill us with Your power in our emptiness.

Ev'ry wall will be demolished
And ev'ry heart resounds that You are here

You send rainfall
You bring sunlight
You command the course of ev'ry wind
Your words are fire deep within
You forgive us
And then You heal us
You deserve the key to every heart
Lord, take Your place

When fears and doubt surround us
Like the waves upon the sea
And our dreams begin to sink before our very eyes
In ev'ry storm You are the anchor
In the depths You are our trust
In each battle we encounter
Lord, You will arise

In Your arms, our place of shelter
Because You hold the keys to ev'ry door

Bridge:
Come, transform our lives anew
We yield our hearts
And we look alone to You
